Housing + Transportation Affordability Index: Places affordable to current residents, current gasoline prices

This map shows areas that are affordable for their current residents and households. A place is considered affordable if average combined housing and transportation costs are less than 45% of the region's median household income for that place.